Action Taken Report: Student Feedback Form

Date: April 12, 2023

Introduction: The Student Feedback Form served as a valuable tool for gathering insights from students on various aspects of their academic journey and campus experience. The questions encompassed teaching quality, exposure to contemporary issues, professional development opportunities, communication improvement initiatives, leadership development, facilities, values and ethics, multidisciplinary problem-solving skills, curriculum relevance, overall experience, and suggestions for improvement.

Summary of Feedback Received: The feedback received from students provided valuable perspectives on their academic experiences and campus life. A summary of the key findings from each question is provided below:

- 1. Teaching-Learning Process: Students generally expressed satisfaction with the teaching-learning process, acknowledging the dedication and expertise of faculty members.
- 2. Exposure to Contemporary Issues: Views on exposure to contemporary issues varied, with some students indicating a strong engagement while others suggested room for improvement.
- 3. Exposure to Professional Environment: Feedback regarding exposure to the professional environment through mechanisms such as field training and guest lectures was generally positive, though some students suggested enhancements.
- 4. Problem-Solving Ability: Many students reported a positive impact on their ability to identify, formulate, and solve problems based on knowledge acquired at the institute.
- 5. Benefit from Communication Improvement Initiatives: Responses varied, with some students indicating significant benefits while others suggested opportunities for refinement.
- 6. Development of Leadership Traits: Students recognized varying levels of leadership trait development, suggesting a need for more structured programs in this area.
- 7. Usefulness of Facilities: Feedback on facilities such as journals and e-journals was generally positive, with students recognizing their importance for lifelong learning.

8. Exposure to Values and Ethics: Students generally acknowledged exposure to values and ethics, though some suggested additional emphasis in the curriculum.
9. Contribution of Activities to Multidisciplinary Problem-Solving: Many students recognized the contribution of activities in building their ability to work on multidisciplinary problems.
10. Curriculum Meeting Professional Requirements: Views were mixed, with some students indicating alignment while others suggested areas for improvement.
11. Overall Experience: The majority of students reported a positive overall experience at the institute, citing factors such as academic quality and campus environment.
12. Suggestions for Improvement: Students provided valuable suggestions, including enhancements to practical learning experiences, increased industry engagement, and curriculum revisions.

Action Taken: Based on the feedback received, the following actions have been taken:

1. Curriculum Review and Enhancement: A comprehensive review of the curriculum has been initiated to incorporate suggestions for improvement and ensure alignment with professional requirements and contemporary issues.
2. Faculty Development Programs: Training programs for faculty members have been organized to enhance teaching methodologies and communication skills.
3. Leadership Development Initiatives: Structured leadership development programs and opportunities for student involvement in leadership roles have been introduced.
4. Facility Upgrades: Efforts are underway to upgrade facilities and resources to better support student learning and research activities.
5. Industry Partnerships: Collaborations with industry partners are being strengthened to provide students with enhanced exposure to the professional environment.
6. Ethics and Values Integration: Additional content focusing on ethics and values has been integrated into the curriculum.
7. Feedback Mechanisms: Enhanced mechanisms for gathering and acting upon student feedback have been implemented.

Conclusion: The Student Feedback Form has been instrumental in identifying areas for improvement and guiding initiatives aimed at enhancing the student experience. By
